this work investigates the close relationship between language and culture. It explains key concepts such as social context and cultural authenticity using insights from fields which include linguistics, sociology, and anthropology.

the intensification of contacts between cultures and languages has a major impact on all social spheres today. Multiculturalism and multilingualism are important elements of the local, regional, national, and global community. Much of the world's conflict stems from the contrast between globalization and nationalism, fuelled by religious, racial, divisions, traditions, and other cultural particularities, focusing mainly on the situation in central and south eastern Europe. This book addresses how cultural identities develop through tourism, education, literature, and other social fields, and how language and literature teaching should be planned in this context. It consists of the following sections: language, culture, and tourism; interculturalism; multilingualism; and approaches to language learning and culture in literature and translation. The volume will be of interest to teachers and researchers of cultural and tourism studies, linguistics, and language learning; literary studies; and translation, while also addressing wider readers interested in contemporary intercultural society. the book presents a new theory of the relationship between language and culture in a transnational and global perspective. The fundamental view is that languages spread across cultures and cultures spread across languages, or in other words, that linguistic and cultural practices flow through social networks in the world along partially different paths and across national structures and communities this volume offers novel insights into linguistic diversity in the domains of spatial and temporal reference searching for uniformity amongst diversity a number of authors discuss expression of dynamic spatial relations cross linguistically in a vast range of typologically different languages such as bezhta french binuq italian japanese polish serbian and spanish among others the contributions on linguistic expression of time all shed new light on pertinent questions regarding this cognitive domain such as the hotly debated relationship between cross linguistic differences in talking about time and universal principles of utterance interpretation modelling temporal inference through aspectual interactions as well as the complexity of the acquisition of tense aspect relations in a second language the topic of space and time in language and culture is also represented from a different point of view in the sister volume space and time in languages and cultures language culture and cognition hcp 37 which discusses spatial and temporal constructs in human language cognition and culture in order to come closer to a better understanding of the interaction between shared and individual characteristics of language and culture that shape the way people interact with each other and exchange information about the spatio temporal constructs that underlie their cognitive social and linguistic foundations this state of the art exploration of language culture and identity is orchestrated through prominent scholars and teachers narratives each weaving together three elements a personal account based on one or more memorable or critical incidents that occurred in the course of learning or using a second or foreign language an interpretation of the incidents highlighting their impact in terms of culture identity and language the connections between the experiences and observations of the author and existing literature on language culture and identity what makes this book stand out is the way in which authors meld traditional academic approaches to inquiry with their own personalized voices this opens a window on different ways of viewing and doing research in applied linguistics and tesol what gives the book its power is the compelling nature of the narratives themselves telling stories is a fundamental way of representing and making sense of the human condition these stories unpack in an accessible but rigorous fashion complex socio cultural constructs of culture identity the self and other and reflexivity and offer a way into these constructs for teachers teachers in preparation and neophyte researchers contributors from around the world give the book broad and international appeal language not only expresses identities but also constructs them starting from that point language and identity examines the interrelationships between language and identities it finds that they are so closely interwoven that words themselves are inscribed with ideological meanings words and language constitute meanings within discourses and discourses vary in power the powerful ones reproduce more powerful meanings colonize other discourses and marginalize or silence the least powerful languages and cultures language and culture death occur in extreme cases of marginalization this book also demonstrates the socio economic opportunities offered by language choice and the cultural allegiances of language where groups have been able to create new lives for themselves by embracing new languages in new countries language can be a double edged sword of opportunity and marginalization language and identity argues that bilingualism and in some cases multilingualism can both promote socio economic opportunity and combat culture death and marginalization with sound theoretical perspectives drawing upon the work of bakhtin vygotsky gumperz foucault and others this book provides readers with a rationale to redress social injustice in the world by supporting minority linguistic and cultural identities and an acknowledgement that access to language can provide opportunity
